Sept. 1 Crop Estimate Shows Drastically Reduced Production

67th Year, No. 37 Fort Worth, Texas, September 15, 1983 Fifty-two Pages, Two Sections

LIVESTOCK REPORTER

TONOUS, BUT WE KNOW WHAT'S COMIN' ...

Now that Congress is back in session and rascals' with President Reagan over who is gonna drive the National Bus and the ranks of candidates for various offices from President on down are filling up, you and me can start worryin' about which of the professional athletes will become our next instant millionaire and how the football and baseball games are comin' out. There ain't gonna be much in the national scene that is gonna be different.

Geo. McGovern says he is willin' & ready to serve as President next time and it may be interestin' to see how he is gonna out-promise those already announced. There are some unfounded rumors goin' around in Democratic Circles that they are gonna be able to lay this summer's heat wave and droughts on Reaganomics, although this does seem a bit farfetched. ### Competition Cornerstone Of Fair Activities

Competition is the cornerstone of the State Fair of Texas, and this year's exposition will salute thousands of Texans who are bringing handwork, hobbies, livestock and talents to be judged at Fair Park in Dallas from October 7-28. Bannering a "Best of Shows" theme, the 1983 Fair will offer a broad range of entertainment and activities as a part of its low-priced gate admission program. (CONT. ON PAGE 14A)

Clarification Of Highway Width Limits Sought

The Texas Department of Agriculture is working closely with the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation to develop new regulations hearing that farm implements won't be banned from using public roads.

The new regulations are necessary to clarify a state law that qualifies Texas to receive federal highway assistance. (CONT. ON PAGE 18A)

SANTA GERTRUDIS NEWS

Santa Circuit
By BUDDY SMITH

The Alabama Santa Gertrudis Association Field Day, hosted by David Abramson's Mountain View Farms, was the best attended field day I have ever seen. They had over 450 people go through the serving line. The morning program was a Santa Gertrudis College of Knowledge that used live cattle to demonstrate the proper selection of bulls to improve your cow herd. The program closed by viewing local commercial cattle with their Santa cross calves at side. Bob Wasson made an excellent presentation on the use of Santa

Wirtz covered a health and vaccination program for show heifers stressing sanitation. He recommended each heifer have their own feed and water buckets to cut down on disease transmission. ### Pioneer S. G. Sale Set For October 5 In San Antonio

The Pioneer Santa Gertrudis Breeders Association will hold "The Source" Sale, October 5 in San Antonio, TX. The sale will be at the Joe Freeman Coliseum Horse Sale Arena.

Competition Cornerstone Of Fair Activities

gram. The $3-adult/$1-kid's ticket entitles fairgoers to a full day and most-of-the-night outing that features parades, fireworks, livestock judging, commercial and cultural exhibits, ice shows, circus performances, outdoor concerts, street dances, celebrity appearances, the 1984 Automobile Show, museum exhibitions, the "Great Rock and Roll Time Machine" and more.

Spotlighted attractions requiring individual tickets include the Texas-Oklahoma college football classic in the Cotton Bowl on Saturday, Oct. 8; the 10th annual State Fair Rodeo in the Coliseum, Oct. 8-10; and the long-awaited Broadway hit, "Lena Horne: The Lady and Her Music" in 18 performances at the Music Hall, Oct. 4-23.

Off-season construction projects have produced a new 1200-vehicle-capacity parking area inside the park's perimeter, expanded restroom facilities, a major ride addition on the Midway and a new home for the Creative Arts Department.

Housed in the familiar Women's Building since 1964, Creative Arts has moved this year to a larger and totally renovated structure on the eastern side of the grounds near the Coliseum. More than 10,000 artists, craftsmen, gourmets, collectors and homemakers are expected to enter 14 competitive divisions and 21 contests to be judged before fairtime audiences. Fashion shows, lessons in country cooking, biscuit-making demonstrations and dance programs will be presented on a daily basis.

The Pan-American Livestock Exposition, Oct. 8-10, will feature top-quality purebred beef and dairy cattle, sheep, swine and goats as buyers and breeders from around the world gather to purchase stock and exchange ideas. Poultry, rabbits, sheep dogs, donkeys, mules and miniature horses will also be highlighted during the run of the Fair, and horse shows are scheduled for a variety of breeds including Tennessee Walking, Palominos, Paints, Arabians and Peruvian Paso.

Fairgoers will be exposed to product and service displays of more than 300 exhibitors in addition to tourist-oriented presentations by foreign countries. A unique outdoor exhibit, new at the Fair in 1983, will be an F-16 fighter plane. Visitors will be permitted to inspect the interior and check out the instruments.

Coronation gowns from Texas festivals will be displayed at the Dallas Garden Center, and "Art in Fair Park" will be the focal exhibition at the Texas Hall of State. "Energy Phase I" will be spotlighted at the Science Place and "Animal Reflections" at the Museum of Natural History. The Aquarium and Age of Steam will also be open throughout the Fair.

Food and fun are at the core of the fairgoing experience, and 1983 visitors will be able to select from munchable and drinkable specialties at over 200 restaurants and concession outlets.

Skill games, shows and souvenir stands line the arteries of the 29-acre Midway. Sixty rides offer a wide range of stomach-churning, heart-pounding experiences. New this year are a giant loop coaster and the Texas Logjam, an exciting flume ride that transports passengers 730 feet up, over and along its watery course.

The Fair will open its gates at noon on Friday, Oct. 7, for a preview day with the official opening parade and ceremonies scheduled the following morning prior to the Texas-Oklahoma game kickoff.

A woman in Bermuda filed a divorce suit against her husband. "On what grounds?" asked the judge. Replied the woman: "I have reason to believe," she said, "that my husband is not the father of my last child."

Selling will be approximately 60 bulls and females from the following breeders: Briggs Ranches, San Antonio; Chaparral Ranches, La Pryor; El Colina Ranches, Walnut Springs; La Paloma Ranch, Riviera; Porter Rodgers Farms, Searcy, AR; Wasson Ranches, Poteau, OK; Nine Bar Ranch, Hempstead, San Jose Cattle Co., Pleasanton; Shelton Ranches, Kerrville; Wendt Ranch, Bay City; L & L Farms, Decatur, AR; and Pat Welder Ranches, Victoria.

A psychology professor conducted an experiment to prove a point about work. He hired a man to hit a log with the reverse side of an ax. The man was told that he would be paid twice the amount he normally made. The fellow lasted half a day. He gave it up, explaining, "I have to see the chips fly."

from the new federal gasoline tax. The new law is unclear whether the traditional exemption from width limitations for agricultural implements, which has been a part of highway law since its inception, still applies. Without the new regulations, farmers would be required to buy permits at a cost of $400 per year for each overwide implement they needed to move on a public road.

"Farmers often have to travel short distances on public roads just to reach their fields, and to get from one field to another, because there is no other way to get there. They simply have to have this exemption to get their farming done. They've always been allowed to use the roads this way, and we're confident that the new regulations will preserve that right," said Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower.

The confusion over the agricultural exemption stems from HB 1802, which the legislature passed to expand the maximum width of commercial vehicles traveling on public highways from eight feet to eight and a half feet. The change was mandated by the federal government as a part of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982, which added a five cent per gallon tax of gasoline to be used for construction and maintenance of highways.

"It is clear from the record that the legislature intended to keep the exemption for overwide farm implements as a part of the law, and we are working with the Texas Highway Department to find an administrative solution to the problem," Hightower said. "We've been in touch with Governor Mark White, Highway Commission Chairman Robert Lanier, and many interested

No Screwworms For 12 Months In Texas, Milestone

The Texas livestock industry has achieved a milestone in its continuing battle relating to animal health: this state has as of Aug. 31 gone 12 months without a confirmed screwworm case within its borders. That's the first time that has happened since man first started raising livestock centuries ago in what is now Texas. Just a decade ago, about 100,000 cases of screwworms were reported yearly by cattlemen in this state. Screwworms live in living flesh of animals, and at one time cost the livestock industry $100 million annually. "The success of the screwworm eradication program in Texas is a tribute to the thousands of breeders and producers who cooperated by giving their time and money. It is an excellent example of what private industry and government agencies can do when they work together," said John W. Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission, Austin, said. And while it is a time to celebrate, it is also a time to continue to be on the watch for possible screwworm infestations. U. S. Department of Agriculture officials at the laboratory in Miami report that submission of possible screwworm samples this year is running behind a year ago. Sample submission is a year-round chore. The only way in which government workers can know of possible screwworm outbreaks is via the mission system. An undetected case of screwworms can spread rapidly, but is essential that producers throughout the state sent in possible screwworm samples to be identified. The Texas screwworm eradication program began on Valentine's Day 1968 in Austin when an airplane dropped sterile screwworm flies to demonstrate what might be done to combat that pest. In the ensuing years, livestock producers donated more than $3.5 million of their own money to the program worked hand in hand with government personnel in setting up the system led to eventual eradication of the pest from this state. A sterile screwworm fly plant was built at the old Moore Air Force Base Mission with producer's money. As many as 200 million sterile screwworm flies a week were air-dropped in strategic areas in Texas. The flies would mate with native populations, but no offspring would result. About three dozen airplanes were part of the screwworm air force. Although the state was declared officially screwworm-free in 1980, sporadic outbreaks of the pest continued to occur. All of them were eradicated. It became apparent that to keep Texas free of screwworms an eradication program would be needed in Mexico. Mexican livestock producers and as Mexican government officials pressed an interest in such a venture and the result was a combined U.S.-U.S. eradication program. A sterile fly plant now operates in Mexico. About 500 million sterile screwworm flies are produced each week and air-dropped in Mexico now. Plans are for the screwworm to be eradicated in the Isthmus of Tehuantepec by the end of 1984. That program is on schedule. Occasional outbreaks of screwworms occurred in Mexico earlier this year within 100 miles of Texas. That was reason for constant surveillance by Texas livestock producers. The fly plant at Mission is now "moth-balled," but it can be reactivated within 24 hours. Federal employees now involved in the screwworm program in the U. S. total about 40; in Mexico, compares with 550 during the peak of the program. The Texas Animal Health Commission now has only four personnel assigned to the screwworm program in the state. "This again points up the need for continued cooperation of all livestock producers to make sure the eradication program continues to be a success," Holcombe said.

Mid-Coast Junior S. G. Members Hear It From Vet

(CONT. FROM PAGE 13A) The show box included balling gun, stomach tube, drench gun, sulfa bolus, and an antibiotic. He cautioned juniors never to treat an animal before consulting a veterinarian. Juniors also learned some of the finer points of selecting a show heifer from a panel presentation and demonstration by Joe McCalland, Simon Peter Bend by Joe McCalland, Nine Bar Ranch, Ranch, Sam Carleton, Louise FFA. McCalland warned juniors to be sure and check the feet and legs explaining that they would get worse when the heifer went on feed. A judging contest was held and placings are as follows: Junior Division (11 and under), 1. Rex Pickley; 2. Tony Cochran; 3. April Smith. Senior Division, 1. Reggie Repley; 2. Shawn Smith; 3. ### Stuph & Thangs

TV grain markets, both futures and cash, got a shove higher with the latest estimates of the crops released this week and everybody seems to be trying to find some way to punish the Soviets for shootin' down that passenger plane without makin' 'em really mad and our allies have got a eye on how they can make a few moves without really doin' any thing drastic and hurtin' their sales to the Russians. TV usual talk in Congress is how to ease those budget deficits without bein' unpleasant by reducin' spendin' or increasin' taxes and as a result we can relax. We'll get more taxes, the only question is how much more. Congress will perform just about as usual, lots more hot air will be generated in Washington, as if we ain't all had about all the hot air we can stand. This week the livestock and meat trade continued to yo-yo around and the financial experts are all tryin' to figure out some new type crop games to gamble on and the most ridiculous of these has been betting on the Dow Jones Averages, or the Standard & Poor's 500, and how anyone can describe these things as "investments" is beyond our feeble mind to understand. So, we all might just as well relax and enjoy it. There ain't likely to yield any great big surprises, good or bad. Ever thine, The Editor. P.S.: Uncle Frank notes where the House of Representatives had to back up on that Social Security Bill to lay and bail this business out. Seems some of them corrupt apellers they are staffed with made a mistake and recorded th' thang as "Social Security" where they meant Social Security, Ho, Hum! — Thessall, Dwyer!

Tucker & Glaze Have Reserve Bull At Polled Hereford Show

Dennis Ellis of Columbus, Mont., stood at the top of the female show and Beartooth Ranch, also of Columbus, wrapped up the championships on the bull roster at the Yellowstone Exhibition Polled Hereford Show. Mark McClintock of Ft. McKavett, Texas, judged the 26 Polled Hereford entries in the Aug. 19 show at Billings, Mont.

Ellis stepped up to the championship position in the female competition with junior division winner BT L1 Dominette 300P. Ellis then led ACE CL Dominette 305P to the championship circle to collect the reserve grand champion heifer title.

In the bull show, Beartooth captured the purple championship banner on Beartooth Projectile 89P, the junior champion bull. Reserve junior champion Paramount 30P, moved into the reserve grand champion bull position. He was shown by Tucker Cattle, Ada, Okla.; Andy Glaze, Gilmer, Texas; and Beartooth.

HISTORY OF SIX R RANCH

The Six R Ranch has been in existence for forty-three years. The brand was first registered in Orlando, Florida by Cushman S. Radebaugh, Sr., a past president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, (now deceased).

The Ranch operated as a family business in Orange, Volusia, and St. Lucie Counties, Florida in the name of Cushman S. Radebaugh and Sons, Inc. In 1973 the family Corporation was sold and Cushman S. Radebaugh, Jr. and his wife Doris moved to Nashville, Arkansas taking the Six R Brand with them.

During the early 1950's the Radebaughs recognized the Hereford/Brahman cross as being their best and most consistent cattle. In the late 1950's a selective Braford up-grading program was begun using some of the better F-1 cows.

When Cushman and Doris moved to Arkansas they took some of the Florida Brafords, as well as some other cattle, with them. They soon found that the Brafords accepted the change to the cold winters and dry summers, "out-doing" the other cattle just as they had in Florida.

Since coming to Arkansas, Cushman and Doris have had their cattle on a continuous up-grading program and are gradually replacing the commercial cattle with Brafords. They now have about four hundred head of Braford females registered with the I.B.A.

The next generation is also in the Braford business. Son, Chip and his wife Stephanie's daughter, Lynn and her husband Dixie Hendry, and daughter, Denise and her husband Darrel Knoecher, all have registered Braford cattle and are on an up-grading program. Daughter, Susan and her husband Bob Adams, live on the Ranch. The youngest son, Mike is still in school and lives at home. All are becoming more a part of the operation.

Take the Snell Fence Test...

WHICH IS THE BEST "H" BRACE?

There's no question that Snell Power Fence® is the answer for livestock producers trying to improve management and cut costs. Constructed of Hi-Tensile smooth wire and durable fiberglass "T" posts, powered by Gallagher/Snell Energizers that won't short out, Snell Power Fence is more effective than traditional barbed or net wire fencing, but only costs half as much!

Answer: If you said B is the best "H" brace, you know your fencing. Spacing the brace posts a minimum of nine feet apart angles the guy wire at 45 degrees, providing maximum support for the fence. Spacing the posts closer together (as in A) causes the guy wire to pull upward, eventually pulling the end post out of the ground. Two opposing guy wires (as in C) work against each other, resulting in no support at all.

For more information on how to build the most effective, economical and long lasting fence with Snell Power Fence® products, contact:

New Minimum-Till Plow Bottom

Eagle Engineering and Manufacturing, Inc., Welcomes, MN announces the addition of the Eagle Minimum Till Plow Bottom to their product line. This unit attaches on most conventional mold-board plows. It breaks the soil's hard pan at optimum levels of 12-16 inches loosening the ground to allow moisture penetration. The attachment does not disturb vital nutrients in soil and allows 50% cover. The wings on the unit are detachable to adjust to different ground cover requirements. This unit can be installed on an eight-bottom plow in two hours.

Temperature, Cow Age Affect Grazing Behavior

The breed of cows had little effect on grazing patterns during winter, but their age and the weather did, report USDA scientists. Cows grazed less as temperatures dropped below 20 degrees Fahrenheit, and at minus 30 degrees, three-year-olds grazed approximately two hours less per day than six-year-olds. There was no difference between the two crossbreeds, Pinzgauer X Hereford and Angus X Hereford, in this study.

Crossbred Beef Cows Vary in Production Efficiency

Average weaning weights of calves from a group of large and high-milk-producing crossbred cows exceeded weights from another group of cows by 45 pounds. But at slaughter time - 455 pounds - the lighter group of calves was the heavier group in pounds of retail meat per unit of feed consumed by cow and calf.

This continuing study at the Roman L. Hruska U.S. Meat Animal Research Center here, indicates that feed energy costs for maintaining beef cows may have an important bearing on profits as the amount of beef produced per cow.

Details of the study are published in a new publication, "Germ Plasma Evaluation Program - Progress Report No. 10" by USDA's Agricultural Research Service (ARS), Kansas State University and the University of Nebraska.

Noble Foundation Wildlife And Fisheries Field Day Sept. 22

A field day emphasizing wildlife and fisheries management will occur at the Noble Foundation Wildlife Unit on September 22, 1983. This field day will be a good opportunity for people to improve their understanding of wildlife and fisheries management. Programs and tour topics will discuss deer harvest strategy, deer drop net, controlling deer depredation on crops and gardens, pond management for sport-fish, prescribed burning, and quail management. Anyone curious about wildlife or fish should find the information interesting and educational. The presentations will be especially oriented toward sportsmen and landowners.

The Priefert Hay Dolly hooks to your pickup or tractor with only a simple pin hitch and trip rope. Because brakes are not required, the Hay Dolly works well in bad ground conditions. The simplicity of the Priefert bale mover will amaze you and assure you of a long, productive life for this unit.

ABA Urges Stronger Card Fraud Laws

Washington, DC, July 27 - Proposed changes in the Truth-in-Lending law and the Electronic Funds Transfer Act will help control credit card fraud, the American Bankers Association (ABA) told a House subcommittee today.

Testifying in support of H.R. 2885 and H.R. 3622 before the House Banking subcommittee on consumer affairs, Sandra J. McLaughlin, vice chairman of the ABA's Bank Card Executive Committee, urged lawmakers to move forward with this legislation as quickly as possible. McLaughlin is senior vice president, Mellon Bank, N.A., Pittsburgh, PA.

"The industry recognizes that more criminal legislation is not a complete answer to the current problems and the problems we will face in the future. Indeed, legislation may represent only a small part of the solution," McLaughlin said, adding, "A large part of the responsibility for counterfeiting prevention falls on the industry."

McLaughlin reviewed the major training and policy coordination activities of the ABA's Bank Card Fraud Task Force which was formed in February 1982. She noted that the industry group, including representatives of Visa and MasterCard, had sponsored nationwide card fraud seminars for banks and other card issuers, and had recently launched a national public education campaign to help cardholders protect themselves against fraud.

Addressing the provisions of the House bills which prohibit account number disclosures, McLaughlin said that the ABA had originally been concerned about many of the restrictive exceptions to the prohibition. These concerns had been alleviated, she said, by the list of exceptions made clear in H.R. 3622, but, she added, "We are hopeful that this subcommittee will use every opportunity to express an intention to allow continued account number disclosures in all aspects of the conduct of legitimate business activities. Such an expression, combined with the more complete list of exceptions contained in H.R. 3622, would help alleviate our concerns regarding compliance burdens associated with the overall approach of this portion of the bill."

The American Bankers Association is the national trade and professional association for America's Full Service Banks. The combined assets of its nearly 18,000 member banks represent approximately 85 percent of the industry total. The nine-member ABA Bank Card Fraud Task Force is composed of members of the ABA Bank Card Executive Committee, card security representatives of both Visa and MasterCard, a representative of the International Association of Credit Card Investigators, a member of the ABA Bank Card Standards Committee, ABA staff, and a card manufacturer serving in a technical advisory capacity.

Survey Shows Sanitation Is Important Swine Management Tool

If you're not now using a swine disinfectant, you are part of a very small minority of hog farmers.

That is the bottom line of a national survey of swine producers made earlier this year, which showed that four out of five regularly use a commercial swine disinfectant. The survey, conducted by Hess & Clark, Inc., manufacturer of DC&R brand of disinfectant, produced a response of 43.4 percent of the 1,000 hog farmers polled.

The survey shows us that today's producers recognize the value of a good disinfectant program," explains Jack James, Director of Marketing for Hess & Clark. "They know that of 10 pigs farrowed, only seven will reach the market. A sound disinfectant program before a farrowing can help reduce losses, because disease is a major cause of death in baby pigs."

Seven of every 10 producers classified their operations as "farrow to finish", and eight of 10 market over 2,000 hogs a year. They reported three major areas of use: the farrowing house (318 mentions), the nursery (241), and foot baths (188).

Producers List Sanitation Goals

Why such widespread use of disinfectants?

"The hog producers listed effectiveness and long-lasting killing action as being the most important benefits," explained Mr. James. "There's a sharp drop after these two."

DC&R, he added, is the only product that promotes a residual activity. This product was judged by hog raisers to be the most effective one (158 mentions), with the second most-frequently named product receiving 85 mentions.

Producers said they buy disinfectants once every three months (171 mentions), monthly (107) or twice a year (100). Three of every four buy less than five gallons at a time, with the gallon size being the most popular (82 percent buy it). Five gallon containers rank second, with 10 percent of the responses.

Most disinfectants are purchased in feed outlets or co-ops (121 mentions), while veterinarians ranked second, with 84 mentions. Respondents said they would be twice as likely to buy DC&R (161 mentions) as they would the second most mentioned product (82), and "local vet's product" ranked third with 28 mentions.

Sanitation Program Logistics Easy

Although specific details may vary from product to product, a sanitation program is easy to maintain, report Hess & Clark officials. A sound program depends upon both sanitizing an area, and then stopping new contaminants from entering it.

"Before entering a farrowing house, be sure to disinfect your boots or shoes in a foot bath containing the recommended amount of disinfectant (i.e., one ounce of DC&R per gallon of water)," recommends James. "The farrowing house should be sprayed with the solution, starting at the top and working down. Give special attention to overhangs and other hard-to-reach areas."

Wash each sow thoroughly with soap and water, before allowing her to enter a farrowing pen, and rise with a mild antiseptic to reduce bacteria. Nursery pens should be thoroughly cleaned prior to the animals' arrival, and disinfected.

"A good sanitation program can help producers reduce early death loss and get one extra pig to market," concludes Hess & Clark's Jack James. "The survey showed that the program is important and accepted ingredient in today's hog operations."

WHAT WE are up against is the fact that man is still an animal. This is the deepest thing in his nature—the survival instinct and the hunting instinct. Those were necessary at one time, the self-preservation was the rule, more than the pressures of society. So many have an uphill battle against these inheritances. You have to recognize the enormous difficulty in making an animal and hunter into a citizen, a civilized man.

New Fuel-Efficient Blount Grain Dryers Give Greater Capacity

New Blount/Commercial Products Group gravity cross flow SCF grain dryer feature innovative energy saving, quality improving features and an expandable design to save money for virtually any size grain system.

Created for farm and commercial use, SCF grain dryers are available in sizes ranging from 280 - 1800 bph at five percent removal for shelled corn. Units feature a modular design for quick, easy installation and expansion to meet future needs.

Reduced energy costs result from a number of SCF features which improve dryer efficiency.

Centrifugal heating fans and a cooling fan operate quietly at higher static pressure and offer greater airflow. Sequenced timers start each fan separately to reduce start-up power demand. Adjustable inlet louvers provide fast, accurate airflow adjustments at all dryer stages for different drying conditions.

Maximum capacity and even drying is ensured with variable speed metering rolls, resulting in the patented differential grain speed action.

More fuel is saved with the optional recirculator that recaptures heat from grain and provides preheated air to the burner.

Down time and maintenance are minimized with an electronic control panel and electronic troubleshooting. Safety devices include warning horn, exhaust air temperature sensors, ultraviolet flame scanner, automatic fuel shutoff and dryer shutdown.

The Blount/SCF dryer features 16 gauge, .078 perforated screen sections with 12 gauge stiffeners; 10 gauge column dividers; and eight gauge legs.

More information is available from Blount/Commercial Products Group, a subsidiary of Blount Agri/Industrial Corp.

Electronic Instrument Helps Livestock Handling

The Stockstill, a new electronic instrument from Australia, provides a highly effective tool for efficient livestock handling. The device immobilizes the animal so that the veterinarian or stockman can work with maximum convenience and safety for himself and less stress on the animal. Routine procedures from de-horning to castration can now be done more quickly and more safely, and many minor surgical procedures can be carried out while using the Stockstill.

Two clips are attached, the battery-powered unit is turned on, and the animal is instantly immobilized. The operator can move head or limbs into any desired position, but the animal is unable to move on its own. The procedure is completely safe and has no after-effects. Seconds after turning the Stockstill off and removing the clips, the animal is back to normal. No resistance is seen to repeated applications of the Stockstill — indicating the absence of psychological as well as physical after-effects.

Users of the Stockstill report advantages such as reduced bleeding and faster healing, as a result of being able to do better work. The use of the Stockstill permits the owner to reduce losses due to the stress of handling.

American consumers spend a billion dollars a year for cold relief preparations.

A Beef Animal Is Not All Steak

Many persons complain about the high price of steak compared to live cattle prices. But, let's look at what a 1,000-pound live steer yields. It will have about 600 lbs. carcass and about 450 lbs. of retail cuts. The choice steaks include about 45 lbs. of sirloin steak and 35 lbs. of off-bone, porterhouse and club steaks for a total of 80 lbs. One can also include 65 lbs. of round steak, although they are not as highly desired as the others. So, a 1,000-pound live animal yields only about 145 lbs. of steaks. Hence, the reason for a higher price for steaks. The carcass yields about 170 lbs. of roasts, 45 lbs. of hamburger and 90 lbs. of stew meat and miscellaneous cuts. Retail stores, however, will devote from these beef cut-out figures, depending on the consumer desire for various cuts in their area.

A beef animal is also a source of many important edible and inedible by-products. Among the edible by-products are variety meats such as sweetbreads, liver, kidney, tripe, tongue, brains and ox joints. Many persons esteem them as delicacies. Other edible products include ones made from fats such as oleo stock and oleo oil used for margarine and bakers shortening. Oleostearin is used in making chewing gum and certain candies. Gelatin from bones, horns and skins is used in making ice cream, marshmallows, canned meats and gelatin desserts. Intestines are used for natural sausage and for surgical sutures.

Inedible by-products include pharmaceuticals used as life-saving or life-improving drugs such as insulin, thrombin, epinephrine, rennet, heparin, TSH and ACTH. Hides are used for three types of leather: suede, latigo and tooling. Hide also supplies felt, certain textiles, a base for many ointments, binders for plaster and asphalt and a base for insulation material. Hair is used for the production of insulation and for rug pads, artists brushes and camel hair brushes. Inedible fats are used in industrial oils and lubricants as tallow for tanning and soaps and glycerine, which is used in explosives, face and hand creams and lipsticks. Fatty acids are used in the production of chemicals, detergents and pesticides. Steric acid is used to make tires run cooler and last longer. Bones, horns and hooves are used in buttons, bone china, piano keys, glues and adhesives, animal feeds and fertilizer, neatfoot oil, paper, wallpaper, emery cloth, sandpaper, combs, toothbrushes, violin strings and others. All the by-products are called the "fifth quarter," which is the determining factor in whether they make enough profit to stay in business or not. It allows them to sell the carcass beef at wholesale for less than the live animal cost. A big challenge ahead is further basic research to find new uses and more efficient use of the present by-products. Therefore, when we enjoy that delicious steak, let's remember that other parts of the animal must find a use as well, so the price of steak does not go too high.

Good Time for Routine Maintenance Of LP-Gas Tanks

Austin, Texas, August 5 - If you are one of the one million Texans who depend on LP-gas for heating, air conditioning or cooking, long summer days are a good time to think about routine maintenance of your LP-gas tank.

"Few people realize that an LP-gas container needs proper care to last," said Hugh Keepers, director of the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Division of the Railroad Commission. "They are very costly and a few simple maintenance steps can save consumers the cost of replacing their tanks."

Start your summer maintenance by giving your tank a coat of good quality, white metal paint. Aluminum tanks don't have to be painted. The reference surface helps reduce the temperature of the tank, keeping pressure from building up. Painting also protects the container from rust and corrosion.

Make sure your container is mounted correctly. LP-gas tanks should slope to level, above ground and mounted on a masonry foundation. Never allow a tank or sand to collect in the area between the tank and the ground. Proper ventilation keeps moisture from collecting and helps avoid corrosion.

Never place a tank inside or next to a building. State law requires that tanks be placed a minimum of 10 feet from buildings. A licensed LP-gas dealer can fill a container that doesn't meet these requirements.

The manufacturer's nameplate on an LP-gas container is very important. It assures the consumer that the tank was designed to meet safety rules.

A licensed dealer can't fill a container that doesn't have this nameplate, and the information on it, visible. To protect from rust and corrosion, put a coat of grease or a clear, acrylic sealant over the plate.

These simple steps will insure the safe operation of your LP-gas tank and all years to its life.

Shifting More Calf Births To Daylight Hours

Feeding pregnant heifers in the evening, rather than the traditional feeding in the morning, resulted in 17 percent more daytime births.

Cattle producers must sometimes assist heifers and cows during calving if they experience calving difficulties, and it is easier for producers to spot problems during daylight. If the dam is not given help, her life and that of the calf are endangered.

Scientists at the U.S. Fort Keogh Livestock and Range Research Station, Miles City, Mont., started studies with 42 heifers confined to a feedlot during the entire calving season. The heifers were fed all the corn plus two pounds of alfalfa hay and three pounds of alfalfa hay and three pounds of polished barley. Again, 14 to 17 percent more of the evening-fed heifers calved during daylight.

The scientists expanded their study the next 3 years to include over 800 heifers. Both the morning-fed group (fed between 7 and 9 a.m.) and the evening-fed group (fed between 5 and 8 p.m.) received 25 pounds of alfalfa hay and three pounds of polished barley. Again, 14 to 17 percent more of the evening-fed heifers calved during daylight.

Canadian research, a summary by Iowa State University, and observations by beef producers and veterinarians have indicated an advantage for evening feeding. All breeds present on the station were included in the study and there were no differences among breeds.

Taxpayers Can Appeal Tax Examination Results

Taxpayers who are not satisfied with the outcome of their federal income tax examination have the right to appeal.

within the Internal Revenue Service, or through the courts, or both.

According to the IRS, the first step for a dissatisfied taxpayer is to request an immediate meeting with the examiner's group supervisor. The supervisor may be able to resolve the issue at that point.

If no agreement is reached with the supervisor, taxpayers have 30 days to appeal through administrative channels. It works this way: An informal conference can be arranged in any of the over 800 offices throughout the country with a representative of the Regional Director of Appeals, who has the authority to settle the case, regardless of dollar amount.

The Appeals Division is independent of the Examination Division, and the role of the appeals officer is to bring an unprejudiced and unbiased point of view to the case. The appeals officer is responsible for trying to reach a mutually satisfying settlement so that the case will not have to go to court.

Additional information on taxpayers' rights of appeals is available in the free IRS Publication 556, "Examination of Return, Appeal Rights, and Claims for Refund," which can be obtained by calling the IRS Forms/Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Trial Program Boosts Public Land Stewardship

An experimental program for resolving public controversies over Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management actions in a 2-million-acre area in northeastern California and northwestern Nevada "may point the way" to more successful public land management in other areas, Bob Wright, chairman of the National Cattlemen's Assn. public lands committee, said following a recent tour of the area.

The success of the "Modoc Washoe Experimental Stewardship Program" in resolving conflicts among government agencies and public land user interests suggests that some of the innovative techniques employed in this program should be tried in other public land areas of the West, Wright said.

"Four years ago this area was the scene of bitter disputes over the management of the public land resources," Wright said. "Interest groups were polarized, and there was no communication, even among the various federal and state agencies involved. Today the situation has been reversed; people are cooperating, and real on-the-ground progress is being made."

Wright said that the tour convinced him that there needed to be local structures or forums for ranchers, wildlife interests, wild horse advocates, agency personnel, and others to better understand each other's interest and concerns and to provide a means for compromise. "In the Modoc Washoe area, once the lines of communication were opened, the groups found ways to work out some of the resource conflicts," he said. "The methods and practices used here may not work in all other areas because a lot depends on whether people are willing to be reasonable, but we will never know until we try."

The Modoc Washoe program is one of three experimental stewardship programs in the West, established under a provision of the Public Rangelands Improvement Act of 1978. The Modoc Washoe program involved establishment of a stewardship steering committee, composed of representatives of interest groups and state and federal agencies, to develop cooperative management programs for the public lands in the area. The steering committee in turn formed a technical review team, and both require unanimous consent before any action can be taken. "This has prevented buck passing," Wright said.

Incentives are given to ranchers to improve stewardship, such as actual use billing at the end of the grazing season and credit for up to 60 percent of the grazing fee for rancher-constructed range improvement.

Shelton Ranch Quarter Horse Sale $389,100

Kerrville - Shelton Ranches first Halter and Performance Accent Sale Aug. 30 grossed $389,100. The 71 American Quarter horses sold were the offspring of championship halter stallions. The investor, Walaby, McLeo Bars, Skipa Star, Rosie Mount, Quincey Dan and the carefully assembled broodmare band of Shelton Ranches.

"After cutting, halter and performance events are the fastest growing segment in the quarter horse industry today," says Robert R. Shelton, president and owner of Shelton Ranches. "For the first time in the history of halter and performance events, there is real money to be won in this kind of competition. There's new value being placed on quarter horses bred for halter and performance abilities. That's why we've advanced our halter and performance animals in a separate sale this year. We wanted to acknowledge the increasing performance industry and give our customers the opportunity to get their hands on the performance horses of the future."

Shelton Ranches halter and performance sales totals will reflect growth of this segment of the quarter horse industry. "We're on the verge of a whole new profit center in the industry," he says. High premiums will be placed on these horses.

The top price paid at the Accent Sale was $37,500 for Conclusive's Beam, a yearling bay mare sired by 1981 World Champion Aged Stallion Conclusive. The dam, Contessa Beam, is an American Quarter Horse Association (AQHA) Halter Champion. Conclusive's Beam was sold to C. Grier Beam of Sunbeam Farms in Cherryville, N.C.

Beam also purchased 8R Conclusive Beam, a 1983 weanling by Conclusive and a full sister to Conclusive's Beam, for $32,000.

Another top seller was A Star For Sure, a five-year-old mare, who is currently in foal to Conclusive. A Star For Sure, who sold to John and Gordon Hannagan of Penfield, Ill. for $20,700, has earned two halter grand championships and four reserve championships. Accent Sale prices averaged $5,480. Weanling mares averaged $5,889 and weanling stallions averaged $2,343.

Yearling mares averaged $16,875 while bred mares averaged $7,558.

"This sale clearly reflected the demand for championship quality halter females," notes Shelton. That's a clear indicator that the halter and performance horse breeders are looking to expand their breeding programs to meet the future demand for animals with proven halter and performance ability.

Every weanling, yearling or 1984 foal of a mare purchased at the Accent Sale that wins an AQHA World Champion in halter, western pleasure, cutting or working cow horse events, will be awarded $10,000 by Shelton Ranches to be equally split between owner and trainer.

In addition, any weanling, yearling or 1984 foal of a mare purchased at the sale that earns an AQHA Champion-ship or AQHA Superior Event Award in halter, western pleasure, cutting or working cow horse event, will win a $5,000 award. ### TFU Announces Winner Of Soil, Water Conservation Award

Waco — The Texas winner of the 1st Annual National Endowment for Soil and Water Conservation Awards Program has been announced by Mike Moeller, President of the Texas Farmers Union. TFU served as the coordinating organization for the contest in Texas.

Roman Friemel, a Panhandle farmer from Groom, will represent the state in the National competition. According to Moeller, Friemel was chosen for his innovative and cost effective conservation techniques from among numerous contestants. Friemel is owner-operator of 2700 acres of farmland that produces wheat, corn and grain sorghum.

Moeller said, "Friemel's operation is an excellent example of what judicious conservation methods and stewardship can mean to agricultural producers. He combines conservation tillage, furrow diking and efficient irrigation technology along with using annual soil tests to make ultimate use of nutrients. We are very pleased to have had a part in spotlighting this outstanding farming operation."

Friemel has been deeply involved in conservation tillage for the past seven years. "It is gratifying to be recognized for my efforts in maintaining our soil and water resources," Friemel said. "I feel very strongly that conservation technology must be rapidly expanded and practically applied to farming operations in the future if we are to maintain our precious resources. Proper care of the land by my generation is the only way to assure an adequate supply of food and fiber for future generations," Friemel said.

Friemel's application will be forwarded to the national judging committee to compete with other state award winners from across the nation. The national winner will be announced from Washington, D.C. around Thanksgiving.

Program Investments Through Checkoff

Selling beef to today's bright, dynamic and aggressive consumer takes an equally aggressive industry effort fueled by checkoff and other investment dollars. And during the past year, the beef industry has taken significant strides toward greatly increasing investments in these programs.

With 35 state beef councils now in operation, it is estimated that approx-

Limousins to Show At Pan-Am Expo

Dallas — For the first time in the history of the breed, Limousin exhibitors will compete in the Texas State Show in Dallas. Through the cooperation of the Texas Limousin Association, we were able to offer open competition as well as classes for a State Show," stated Don Clark, Director of Livestock at the State Fair of Texas. Twenty (20) classes in the open division and seventeen (17) classes in the State Show have premiums available to exhibitors.

Exhibitors in the open show will compete for $5,000 in the open classes and $1,200 in the State Show classes. All cattle will be judged by Richard Stotts, Wichita Falls, Texas, on Friday, October 14.

In the Junior Beef Heifer Show, Texas youngsters will compete for $1,025 in premiums on Thursday, October 20. These entries will be placed by John Maurer, College Station, Texas. Limousin steers, competing in Crossbred and Other Breeds classes will be judged by Dr. Robert A. Long, Lubbock, Texas, on Wednesday, October 19.

Additional livestock information may be obtained from the Livestock Department, State Fair of Texas, P.O. Box 28010, Dallas, Texas 75228.

Almost $16 million will be invested in national and state programs in 1983. The bulk of these funds are generated from state checkoff programs. The remainder of the funds come from investments by purebred breeders ($1 per transfer), beef packers (3 cents per head slaughtered) and meat processors (10 cents per ton processed).

Of the 35 state checkoff programs, 28 are now state-mandated and 12 are on an implied consent (voluntary checkoff).

Commodities Comment

Week Ending Sept. 8
This last week the commodity markets were as exciting as wild paint dry. The only real action was the soybean pit where limit up and down days are common. There are "news" fundamentals affecting commodity prices. A strong U.S. Dollar, mid-western drought and interest continue to dominate the market. An exception of grains, most making a pear trendless or slightly bullish. A matter of fact most markets are at prime rate is about 30%.

The soybean and corn markets continued their winning ways this week. The trend is up and no top appears in sight. The trade and public are now awaiting the September 12th USDA Crop Report. Needless to say, the report is crucial for determining price direction for beans and corn. The hot, dry mid-western weather has put much run its course as a major factor affecting crop yields. The corn crop made and nothing can improve yield this time. Some also believe that beans, being a "miracle crop," may be nearly as damaged as previous thought. But don't bet on it! Remember that the trend is up. Many traders are trying to refocus their attention to the demand side of the grain market. It doesn't be misled. This is a supply market right now and until the market tell you otherwise, don't sell it short. The actual crop sizes won't be determined until the upcoming USDA Report. So — stay tuned. At writing, November beans were at $9.27, December corn at $3.64 1/2, and December wheat at $4.05.

The livestock markets finally showed some life this week. Cattle prices are bounded sharply after hitting yearly lows on Tuesday of this week. The buying came mostly from outside areas covering short positions in computer programs probing the upside. Fundamentally, the only thing can find that is bullish for livestock is the grain markets. And higher grain prices are negative near term, but bullish long term. So the livestock producer is caught in a real quandary. Pasture land is drying up, feed costs are high, and interest rates are relatively high. Many traders believe that a "reversal" was made in cattle prices this week, but I don't think it's still bearish. Livestock prices as fall approaches. For about feeder cattle prices approaching $50-54 basis the October futures is possible. Sell the rallies in all livestock the first of the year. At writing, October live cattle at $97.50, October hogs $42.87, and February calves $68.17.

Which way from here?
Nothing much has changed fundamentally over the past several weeks. Grains remain in an up-trend and currencies, interest rates and metal are mixed. I keep emphasizing that traders should trade "with the trend" and that's still my advice. You'll find that it's easier on you mentally and financially if you practice that policy.
Some markets that bear watching are GNMA's and foreign currencies. I don't believe that interest rates will go higher into Presidential election year. Therefore, I would probe the long end of those markets on price breaks. This, writing December Bonds closed at 70.82, December GNMA's at 68.19, and December Swiss Franc at 48.80.
One final note: on grain prices. Although hot, dry weather has been a major market factor does not mean and other weather forces. Remember that the crops are still unharvested. How about an early frost? How about a wet harvest? In 1973, there were more soybeans harvested in January, 1974, than all of October, November and December 1973.

This past week I saw a real nice 6 point buck without velvet on its antlers. Also saw a flock of ducks winging their way south. An omen for grains? I guess so. Just too bullish! Jerry Welch, Commodity Specialist, Prudential-Bache, 281 S. Main, Suite 1400, Clayton, MO 63105, 800-325-7379.

West TX All-Breeds Fall Bull Sale

John Joyce, Owner, World Sales, announces the 1st West Texas All-Breeds Fall Bull Sale will be held at the Abilene Auction Yards in Abilene, Texas on September 17, 1983 at 4:00 PM.

Joyce announces, "We believe a highly quality All-Breeds Bull Sale in the Abilene area has been needed for quite some time. Many breeders of commercial cattle have simply not had the time to select high quality range bulls. This bull sale will enable the commercial cattlemen to take the guess work out of buying bulls. The bulls offered in this sale will be weighed and a weight per day of age calculated, sifted for structural soundness, and graded by twelve to fourteen commercial cattlemen.

Registered bulls of any breed, at least eighteen months of age and not over forty months of age at sale time will be accepted. A nomination fee of $50.00 per bull is required and is due by August 15, 1983.

All bulls entered in this sale must have been registered originally in the consignor's name or have been transferred into the consignor's name by the nomination deadline. All bulls must be Brucellosis and Tuberculosis tested and also fertility tested. The bulls will be guaranteed by the consignor to the buyer.

The judging of the bulls will be held at the Abilene Auction Yards on Saturday, September 17th beginning at 8:00 AM. A Champion will be selected in each breed and trophies will be awarded. An "Ideal Range Bull" will be selected from the breed champions.

For further information and nomination applications, please contact John Joyce, 1107 Cottondale Road, Wharton, Texas 77488, or call 713/842-2035 and/or 409/667-8212.

A "little ear" on feeder calves has become an important marketing factor in recent years.

Some feeders are demanding that their order buyers select calves with some Brahman in their genetic make-up.

We think one of the best tools available to put a "little ear" on your feeder calves is to turn out a Beefmaster bull.

Farm Safety Week Set Sept. 18-24

Austin - Protecting rural children and teaching them safety measures is the emphasis of National Farm Safety Week September 18-24, according to George R. Gustafson, Executive Vice President of the Texas Safety Association.

The 40th annual observance of rural safety has been proclaimed by President Ronald Reagan and is being sponsored by the National Safety Council and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Farm safety is a particular concern in Texas, where 100 persons lost their lives in farm accidents last year, according to Gustafson. The statistics are tabulated by the Texas Farm Bureau, based on data furnished by the Texas State Health Department. These records show that of the 100 deaths, most were related to tractors, firearms, drowning, electric current, and machinery, he said.

Safety leaders estimate that the incidence of these rural-type accidents is actually much greater than those numbers reported, he said.

Although farm fatalities are a major concern, farmers and ranchers should also be aware that up to 20,000 disabling injuries and up to 250,000 serious injuries requiring medical attention occur to Texas farmers and ranchers each year, according to Dr. Gary S. Nelson, Extension Specialist Safety Engineering, Texas A&M University and Texas Safety Association Vice President for Agriculture.

According to Nelson, "If you are a farmer or a rancher, the probability of experiencing a serious injury this year is 1 in 6."
